

Voice Technologies Nominated for Philips' Partner Awards for Third Year Running

Leading digital dictation supplier short-listed by Philips for its 2010 Partner Awards

4 March 2010 – Voice Technologies has been nominated for the MDCI Partner Recognition Award in this year's Philip's Partner Awards, making this the third consecutive year that the company has been short-listed.

Previously having won awards at both the 2008 and 2009 ceremonies, this third successive nomination demonstrates the consistent quality provided by Voice Technologies, which is now one of the largest suppliers of digital dictation products in the UK.

Darren Maundrell of Philips says: "Over the past three years Voice Technologies has established itself as one of the UK's leading digital dictation providers and a key supplier of digital dictation workflow systems to the NHS. They have achieved this impressive goal by the levels of service and support offered to clients, while continuing to write and develop their own software. Philips has nominated Voice Technologies for this award in formal recognition of consistent excellence and delivering professionalism and drive."

With the growth of the company, Voice Technologies' customer support team has more than trebled in the past few years to ensure that all customers receive the highest quality of service. There also still remains a strong focus on the company's product development, with Voice Technologies most recently releasing WinVoicePro, which works seamlessly with Winscribe to reduce the time taken for secretaries and administrators to produce documents.

Alistair Graham, Sales and Technical Director of Voice Technologies, says: "To be nominated for these awards three years in a row is a fantastic achievement and is testament to the quality we strive to deliver – both with our product and our service. We have enjoyed substantial business growth over the past few years and look to continue this trend throughout 2010."

Winners of the Philip's Partner Awards will be announced at the awards ceremony, which will be held at Theobalds Park on the 18th March.
